

Relationships, Sex and Health Education (RSHE) QET Statement

This statement should be read in conjunction with the following policies/statements:

Anti-Bullying Policy; Behaviour and Ethos Policy; Child Protection and Safeguarding Policy; Equality and Diversity Policy; Equality Objectives Statement; SEND Trust Statement

Introduction

The Quantock Education Trust (QET) respects every pupils' entitlement to Relationships Education, Relationships and Sex Education (RSE) and Health Education and ensures that it meets its statutory obligations as set out in latest Relationships Education, Relationships and Sex Education (RSE) and Health Education Guidance. Relationships Education is compulsory in all primary schools in England and Relationships and Sex Education compulsory in all secondary schools, as well as Health Education being compulsory in all state-funded schools.

This overarching statement guides the work and implementation of the statutory guidance all schools in the Trust. Each school is also required to have its own school specific RSHE policy which provides the detail relating to roles, responsibilities, curriculum delivery (including SEND and the parental right to withdraw). Relationship Education is a mandatory requirement for all primary schools; Relationship and Sex Education is a mandatory requirement for all secondary schools and Health Education is required in all schools.

- Sexey's - Relationships and Sex Education Policy
- Spaxton – RSHE Policy 2021
- Stogursey – Sex and Relationships Education Policy

It is the responsibility of all individuals in the Trust to familiarise themselves with the principles set out in this statement, be aware of the statutory guidance, and ensure that individual schools comply with statutory requirements.

Foundation governors and trustees of faith academy trusts will also have wider responsibilities in relation to maintaining and developing the religious ethos of the schools.

Statutory Guidance:

In primary schools, the curriculum will provide the building blocks of healthy, respectful relationships, focusing on family and friendships, in all contexts, including online. This will sit alongside the essential understanding of how to be healthy. At secondary, teaching will build on the knowledge acquired at primary and develop further pupils' understanding of health, with an increased focus on risk areas such as drugs and alcohol, as well as introducing knowledge about intimate relationships and sex.

Relationships Education - By the end of primary school:

Families and people who care for me	Pupils should know <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• that families are important for children growing up because they can give love, security and stability.</li> <li>• the characteristics of healthy family life, commitment to each other, including in times of difficulty, protection and care for children and other family members, the importance of spending time together and sharing each other's lives.</li> <li>• that others' families, either in school or in the wider world, sometimes look different from their family, but that they should respect those differences and know that other children's families are also characterised by love and care.</li> <li>• that stable, caring relationships, which may be of different types, are at the heart of happy families, and are important for children's security as they grow up.</li> <li>• that marriage represents a formal and legally recognised commitment of two people to each other which is intended to be lifelong.</li> <li>• how to recognise if family relationships are making them feel unhappy or unsafe, and how to seek help or advice from others if needed.</li> </ul>
Caring friendships	Pupils should know <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• how important friendships are in making us feel happy and secure, and how people choose and make friends.</li> <li>• the characteristics of friendships, including mutual respect, truthfulness, trustworthiness, loyalty, kindness, generosity, trust, sharing interests and experiences and support with problems and difficulties.</li> <li>• that healthy friendships are positive and welcoming towards others, and do not make others feel lonely or excluded.</li> <li>• that most friendships have ups and downs, and that these can often be worked through so that the friendship is repaired or even strengthened, and that resorting to violence is never right.</li> <li>• how to recognise who to trust and who not to trust, how to judge when a friendship is making them feel unhappy or uncomfortable, managing conflict, how to manage these situations and how to seek help or advice from others, if needed.</li> </ul>
Respectful relationships	Pupils should know <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• the importance of respecting others, even when they are very different from them (for example, physically, in character, personality or backgrounds), or make different choices or have different preferences or beliefs.</li> <li>• practical steps they can take in a range of different contexts to improve or support respectful relationships.</li> <li>• the conventions of courtesy and manners.</li> <li>• the importance of self-respect and how this links to their own happiness.</li> <li>• that in school and in wider society they can expect to be treated with respect by others, and that in turn they should show due respect to others, including those in positions of authority.</li> <li>• about different types of bullying (including cyberbullying), the impact of bullying, responsibilities of bystanders (primarily reporting bullying to an adult) and how to get help.</li> <li>• what a stereotype is, and how stereotypes can be unfair, negative or destructive.</li> <li>• the importance of permission-seeking and giving in relationships with friends, peers and adults.</li> </ul>

Teaching of RSHE:

Teaching will incorporate QET principles of high quality teaching. Plans will be flexible and respond to pupils' current level of knowledge and skills. Time with pupils will enable them to revisit, recap and extend the knowledge and skills over time. Teaching will involve a range of practical activities and resources that allow pupils to ask questions and talk about key issues of personal and private behaviours, consent and positive relationships. Leaders will adjust groupings so that they are conducive to discussing these issues.

In line with statutory guidance the teaching should include the explicit teaching and development of important attributes such as respect, honesty, kindness, tolerance and courtesy. This also includes personal privacy, respect and consent to ensure that young people have a good understanding of how to behave towards their peers.

The curriculum will be accessible for all pupils. Teaching will be differentiated and personalised, preparing pupils for adulthood outcomes. The Trust is aware that pupils with SEND can be more vulnerable to exploitation, bullying and other issues due to the nature of their SEND. The curriculum will be covered at a pace of the pupils and in ways that suit their understanding. Teaching should be:

- Sensitive
- Age-appropriate
- Developmentally appropriate
- Delivered with reference to the law

When teaching RSHE, schools should be aware that children may raise topics including self-harm and suicide. In talking about this content in the classroom, teachers must be aware of the risks of encouraging or making suicide seem a more viable option for pupils and avoid material being instructive rather than preventative. To avoid this, they should take care to avoid giving instructions or methods of self-harm or suicide and avoid using emotive language, videos or images.

If teachers have concerns about a specific pupil in relation to self-harm or suicidal ideation or attempts, they must follow safeguarding procedures.

Safeguarding, reports of abuse and confidentiality:

At the heart of RSHE subjects there is a focus on keeping children safe, and schools can play an important role in preventative education. Keeping Children Safe in Education 2022 (KCSIE) sets out that all schools and colleges should ensure children are taught about safeguarding, including how to stay safe online, as part of providing a broad and balanced curriculum.

- Any planning for RSHE provision and policy documents should take close account of the requirements set out in Part 1 and Part of QET's Child Protection and Safeguarding Policy and School Policies.
- Children should be made aware of how to raise their concerns or make a report and how any report will be handled. This should include processes when they have a concern about a friend or peer.
- KCSIE is clear that all staff should know what to do if a pupil tells them that they are being abused or neglected or are witnessing abuse. Staff should know how to manage the requirement to maintain an appropriate level of confidentiality. This means only involving those who need to be involved, such as the Designated Safeguarding Lead (or deputy) and children's social care.

- Good practice would be to involve the Designated Safeguarding Lead (or a deputy) in anything that is safeguarding-related in the context of RSHE. They will potentially have knowledge of trusted, high quality local resources that could be engaged, links to the police and other agencies and the knowledge of any particular local issues which it may be appropriate to address in lessons.
- Where a school invites external agencies in to support delivery of these subjects, they must agree in advance of the session how a safeguarding report should be dealt with by the external visitor.

Expectations of School Leaders

The Headteacher is responsible for

- Appointing a designated member of staff to oversee the delivery of this aspect of the curriculum;
- Implementing adequate planning and subsequent monitoring to secure the pupils' curriculum entitlement;
- Ensuring teachers have adequate time and training to develop the skills required for effective teaching, as well as access to materials that enable them to meet the needs of the pupils;
- All schools should work closely with parents when planning and delivering RSHE. The role of parents in the development of their children's understanding about relationships is vital. Parents are the first teachers of their children. They have the most significant influence in enabling their children to grow and mature and to form healthy relationships.
- Schools should ensure that parents know what will be taught and when, and clearly communicate the fact that parents have the right to request that their child be withdrawn from some or all of sex education delivered as part of statutory RSE. (see Sections 45 – 50 of the guidance document)
- Each school will consult with parents and pupils to agree the following:
  - Details of content and when each topic is taught, taking account of the age of the pupils.
  - Who delivers either Relationship Education or Relationship Sex Education
  - How the policy has been produced and how it will be kept under review in both cases working with parents
  - How delivery of the content will be made accessible to all pupils including those with SEND
  - Explanation of the right to withdraw
- Where appropriate schools should work with external organisations to enhance the delivery of RSHE. Schools should also ensure that the teaching delivered by the visitor fits with their planned programme and their published policy. It is important that schools discuss the detail of how the visitor will deliver their sessions and ensure that the content is age-appropriate and accessible for the pupils.
- Schools should ask to see the materials visitors will use as well as a lesson plan in advance, so that they can ensure it meets the full range of pupils' needs (e.g. special educational needs). It is important to agree how confidentiality will work in any lesson and that the visitor understands how safeguarding reports should be dealt with in line with school policy.

Trustees and LGCs should also make sure that:

- All pupils make progress in achieving the expected educational outcomes;

- RSHE is well led, effectively managed and well planned;
- The quality of provision is subject to regular and effective self-evaluation;
- Teaching is delivered in ways that are accessible to all pupils with SEND;
- Clear information is provided for parents on the subject content and the right to request that their child is withdrawn; and,
- RSHE is resourced, staffed and timetabled in a way that ensures that the school can fulfil its legal obligations.

Accountability

Key aspects of Relationships Education, RSE and Health Education are in scope for Ofsted inspection; for example, through inspectors' consideration of pupils' personal development, behaviour and welfare; and pupils' spiritual, moral, social and cultural development.

Compliance with statutory requirements will be monitored via the curriculum review process embedded in the school improvement strategy, via line management of RSHE, and via regular external scrutiny such as in Safeguarding Reviews, Curriculum reviews/audits.
